WOULD AID HOME BUYERS

Reconversion Director Wants Occupants To Get Money's Worth

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—An aide of John W. Snyder said today the reconversion director is planning controls aimed at assuring new home buyers value for their money. This official, representing Snyder at the government-sponsored housing conference here, said it has been decided "there will have to be some sort of quality controls" to make sure home purchasers get their money's worth. It is understood the general plan is to have the National Housing Agency check builders' specifications when they apply for government aid in obtaining materials. Would Reject Some Under a program recommended to Snyder by other government officials, NHA would turn down applications for such aid if it felt the proposed price for a home was out of line with cost. This provision would be incorporated in a new regulation to earmark 50 per cent of all building materials for homes costing $10,000 or less. Administration-enforced legislation for price ceilings on new and old houses split labor and industry delegates into two camps at yesterday's conference session. The CIO threw its support to the ceiling program, but Joseph E. Merrick, president of the National Association of Home Builders, asserted the Patman bill providing for such ceilings would "emasculate" the industry. Harry C. Bates, chairman of the American Federation of Labor's housing committee, said the public should be told that only about 400,000 homes can be built next year. The need has been estimated at more than 3,000,000 new dwellings. C. Hart, vice president of the Production Council, Inc., cautioned that if the steel strike scheduled for next month develops, it would mean a "virtual stoppage of home construction."

Expansion Begun By E. W. Bliss Co. On Welding Shop

Continuing its pre-war production lines during the war and making numerous parts for medium tanks, the E. W. Bliss Co. plant here compiled an enviable record and now is in the process of revising its facilities to conform with current trends in the manufacture of large mill machinery. The plant, situated between S. Ellsworth ave. and S. Broadway from Franklin to Aetna sts., manufactures rolling mills and auxiliary equipment for the steel, aluminum and brass industry. Present expansion and reconversion at Bliss includes the dismantling of the old foundry, additions and improvements to the building, which, with another new adjoining structure, will house a new welding shop. The change will enlarge the old foundry building, making it 70 feet in width and 310 feet in length and with the new structure will total 22,600 square feet of floor space. This will bring the total floor space for the entire plant to 200,000 square feet. In the new welding shop approximately 75 additional employees, with special training in welding technique, will work. Will Install New Equipment The shift from foundry work to welding work is brought about, firm officials explain, by the trend in large machinery manufacture from the use of castings to the use of weldments, the parts being flame cut or formed on machines and welded together to simulate parts of machinery formerly cast in one piece. The most modern type of equipment will be used for the fabrication and forming of steel in the new set-up and new equipment for shot blast cleaning will be installed. Another improvement is a new stress relieving furnace, which will be located in the new welding building. Bliss anticipates no cutback in production or employment here, but expects an increase at least as large as indicated above. War brought no difficult reconversion problems to the local plant as most of the work done throughout the war was similar to its pre-war and anticipated post-war occupation. The local firm is fast re-hiring its returning veteran employees and is continuing an apprentice program which is among the most progressive in Salem.

McVay Recounts Sinking Of Cruiser Indianapolis July 30

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Capt. Charles B. McVay, III, testified at his court martial today he did not order the Indianapolis to maintain a zigzag course the night the heavy cruiser was lost because he considered visibility conditions made it unnecessary. Capt. McVay is being tried on charges of negligence and inefficiency in the loss of the warship July 30 while enroute from Guam to Leyte. The navy has attributed the ship's loss to an enemy submarine. The accused officer said visibility was poor that night and there was no moon. Dramatically recounting the story of his actions in the 15 minutes which elapsed between the explosions and the ship's sinking, Capt. McVay said he was asleep in his emergency cabin when the explosions occurred. His first impression was that the ship had been struck by a suicide plane. Then, he said, he realized they were out of the area where a suicide attack might occur, and he realized it must have been mines or torpedoes. Ordered Check of Damage He went out on deck, he said, and was informed that all communications were out, that the damage control officer had gone below to determine the situation, and that efforts to signal the engine room to stop engines had been fruitless. He said he sent word immediately to the radio shack to get out a distress message. He said he was unable to see anything from the bridge to indicate the extent of damage, but the ship was maintaining a fairly even keel. The damage control officer reported that his examination indicated the ship was badly damaged and asked the captain if he wanted to order the ship abandoned. McVay said he replied, "No," that he thought the damage could be controlled and ordered the officer to go below again and check. Then, he related, the executive officer reported the damage was so

World Organization Backed By Military Needed—Lindbergh

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Charles A. Lindbergh says man's science has brought him to a choice of whether he will live "in an organized world or in constant insecurity." Aircraft and the atomic bomb, the one-time non-interventionist declared at an Aero club dinner, have made it "no longer a question of whether or not we should have world organization, but of what form it should take." Lindbergh chose a celebration of the 42nd anniversary of the Wright brothers' flight for his first public address since 1941. "I have advocated tonight a world organization backed by military power, organization led by western peoples who developed modern science with its aviation and its atomic bomb," Lindbergh said last night. The world organization, he suggested, will be a compromise between "the nations which have controlled on the basis of ability" and "the nations which would control on the basis of counting heads." It must have to a Christian code of "integrity, humility and compassion that are lacking all over this post-war world." 2 PERSONS KILLED BY MONOXIDE FUMES PT PLEASANT, W. Va., Dec. 18.—Carbon monoxide gas fumes in the overheated home of a Pt. Pleasant minister caused the death of two persons and left another in a critical condition, Dr. Roy W. Esenhaur, Mason county coroner, reported last night. Mrs. Harry Ours, 22, and her one-year-old son, Charles Nicholas Ours, were found dead yesterday afternoon in their home. Mrs. Gustaf McCray, a neighbor who was caring for the ill Mrs. Ours, was discovered in a semi-conscious condition, and was removed to a Gallipolis, O., hospital where attaches pronounced her condition critical. CITY REPORTS LOW READING OF 12 BELOW

Five-Day Blizzard Leaves 68 Inches of Snow In Buffalo

Salem residents shivered last night amid the lowest temperatures recorded so far this winter as the mercury dipped to a low of 12 below zero. Despite the sudden drop, people weren't quite so cold as the day before, when sharp wintry blasts accentuated the somewhat higher temperatures. High yesterday was 16 above. At noon today it was 13. Unofficial reports from Lisbon and in the vicinity of Fredericks-town had the mercury down to a low of 20 degrees. Some places in Lisbon reported lows of 14 and 17 below. Temperatures throughout this section were lower, on the average, than any others reported throughout the state last night. 30 Persons Dead December's first prolonged cold wave held fast over a wide section of the country today and there was no immediate relief in sight. Deaths of at least 30 persons were attributed to the cold weather. Buffalo, N. Y., and suburbs were virtually snowbound after a five-day blizzard, with falls to a depth of 68 inches. Frigid temperatures, upward from a low of 33 below zero, dominated the northern half of the country and sub-zero readings continued from extreme northern Indiana and Illinois westward and northward through eastern Montana. The mercury dipped to below zero in Pennsylvania. Snow and rain fell in many sections of the southwest, extending through central Illinois and central Ohio. The coldest spot on the weather map today was at Broadus, Mont., in West Yellowstone park, a biting 33 below.

Driver Hurt When Car Skids, Upsets

John Neil, 22, of East Palestine, is in Salem City hospital today suffering from multiple lacerations of the head and face received when a car he was driving overturned at 6:30 p. m. yesterday after it skidded three miles west of the intersection of Routes 170 and 154. Four passengers in the car were uninjured, state highway patrolmen said. No one was injured when a car and truck, driven by Esther Jackson, 24, of Homeworth, and James Earl McAllister, 43, also of Homeworth, sideswiped at 7:45 p. m. yesterday a mile west of North Georgetown on a county road, state patrolmen reported.

COURT DISMISSES APPEAL BY JOYCE

LONDON, Dec. 18.—An appeal by William (Lord Haw Haw) Joyce from a death sentence for high treason was dismissed today by the House of Lords, Britain's court of last resort. The home secretary announced yesterday he would not reprieve John Amery, son of the British secretary of state for India in the Churchill war cabinet, who also was convicted of being a Nazi broadcaster. Amery is scheduled to be hanged tomorrow; no date has been fixed for Joyce's execution. Moon Eclipse Tonight The moon will be seen in eclipse in parts of the nation where weather permits tonight. The earth's shadow will begin passing across the satellite at 7:30 p. m. and will clear it at 11:03 p. m. Even during totality—from 8:40 p. m. to 10 p. m.—the moon will be visible, with a dull, coppery hue. Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. White of Kent, O., will occupy, rent free, a two-room apartment in the Ohio Executive Mansion at Columbus, O., at the invitation of Gov. Frank J. Lausche. Discharged from the Army in October with the rank of second lieutenant, White plans to attend Ohio State University under the GI Bill of Rights. The governor made the offer in the declared hope that others will follow the example of attempting to provide housing for veterans unable to find satisfactory places to live.

Says Prompt Warning Would Have Saved Ships In Hawaii

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Vice Admiral Theodore E. Wilkinson testified today warships caught in the Japanese assault on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, might have had an hour and a half to get out to sea had Washington sent an urgent message as soon as he advised. The former chief of naval intelligence also told the congressional Pearl Harbor committee he believed the fleet would have been in greater danger if it had been attacked at Lahaina roads, another fleet anchorage in Hawaii, or on the west coast. Wilkinson said he suggested to Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, by 9:30 a. m. (EST) Dec. 7, that a message be sent to the fleet. He said he was prompted by "fighting words" contained in an intercepted Japanese diplomatic message. "He did not send a message immediately after that conversation," asked Senator Lucas (D-Ill.). Message Sent At 11:30 a. m. "So I understand—not while I was there," replied Wilkinson. The admiral agreed Stark had the authority to do so. Lucas commented that a message was not sent until 11:30 a. m. he calculated Stark had at least an hour and a half difference "between the time one was sent and the time it could have been sent." "How many ships could leave Pearl Harbor in an hour and a half?" Lucas asked. Wilkinson said a battleship or a cruiser could leave every ten minutes, with one destroyer between the larger vessels. If pressed, he said two destroyers could be sandwiched in but that might lead to a channel-blocking collision. The admiral roughly estimated the ships in Pearl Harbor as six battleships, six cruisers and a dozen destroyers. Wilkinson gave his opinion on the relative safety of the Pearl Harbor anchorage in response to questioning of Rep. Murphy (D-Pa.) who asked: "If the fleet was behind the roads instead of in Pearl Harbor would it have been less secure?" "I would say it would have been less secure because it would also have been exposed to submarine attack while there would have been the same danger from air attack," Wilkinson said.

WARSHIPS SURVIVE ATLANTIC STORM

LONDON, Dec. 18.—Two American warships, the Aircraft Carrier Wasp and the Cruiser Augusta, were damaged in a 70-mile an hour gale which swept over the mid-Atlantic and battered the coast of England today. The U. S. Navy port office at Southampton announced the Wasp was enroute to Southampton to pick up troops when she ran into the storm Sunday. The Augusta, en route to the United States from Le Havre with troops, had her starboard side crushed in one or two inches and received similar damage to her bulkheads. No casualties were reported. Port officials said the Wasp was expected to put in at Plymouth this morning for repairs, and that the Augusta had turned back to Southampton. Elderly Couple Treated After Fire In Residence Fire in the basement of the Daniel Gaston home, 551 E. Sixth st., caused considerable damage to the basement at 11:52 a. m. today. SAYS MATSUOKA BLOCKED PEACE MOVES WITH U. S.

BY MURLIN SPENCER

TOKYO, Dec. 18.—Japan's answer to an American plan to preserve peace in the Pacific was blocked for eight days in the spring of 1941 while Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka sought to learn Germany's attitude toward the negotiations, Prince Konoye wrote in his memoirs. To gain time, Matsuoka proposed a neutrality pact with the United States, a suggestion by Cordell Hull, then U. S. secretary of state. Konoye said that earlier Matsuoka, returning from Germany in a "bad mood," prevented Japanese acceptance of the American plan eight months before Pearl Harbor. That plan, Konoye wrote, was based on an American promise to help obtain Chungking's agreement to peace in China. Pressed by political, army and navy leaders to quit stalling—they saw in the American plan an opportunity to pull Japan's chestnuts off the China fire—Matsuoka forwarded his answer to the United States on May 12. Received German Note Shortly thereafter he received from Germany a reply which sought to use the negotiations as means of preventing the U. S. from conveying goods to Britain, under threat that such action would force Japan to enter the war. The Associated Press obtained Konoye's memoirs three days before his suicide. Matsuoka told the emperor on May 8 that if the U. S. should join in the European war, "Japan would naturally have to stand on the side of Germany and Italy," the former premier wrote. The American plan for an understanding between the two nations was explained to Matsuoka when he returned from European conferences with Nazi chiefs, but Konoye noted: "It is said that as expected, Matsuoka was in a bad mood and assumed the attitude of having almost no interest in the plan."

Later that night, April 22, Matsuoka "specially stressed the problem of Germany's trust of Japan" under the tri-partite pact," Konoye wrote. Matsuoka balked. Matsuoka stalled. But he did draft his own revision of the American plan and his revisions were approved by the Japanese cabinet May 3. Matsuoka balked on assuring the U. S. Japan would not "carry out an armed advance southward" into the Southwest Pacific. He deleted a provision that neither country would base its fleet where it could threaten the other. He also inserted a provision that the U. S. and Japan would mediate between Britain and Germany in an attempt to end the European war at a point when Germany was victorious. The cabinet urged the revision sent to the United States. Again Matsuoka stalled. He told Ambassador Nomura in Washington to give

One Killed, 49 Hurt In Train Accident

(By Associated Press)
NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 18.—A Hudson and Manhattan tube train, carrying nearly 1,000 home bound commuters, from New York, crashed last night into the raised center span of a lift bridge over the Passaic river—only 100 feet from its Newark destination—killing the motorman and injuring at least 49 passengers. Eugene Dubois, public relations executive of the Pennsylvania railroad, of which the H. & M. is an affiliate, said the seven-car train apparently passed stop signals and the "smash board," which gives extra warning that the span is closed to train traffic. Police Chief Siebold of Newark said the lift section of the bridge was four feet short of closing, after being raised for passage of a ship, when the head car of the train jammed into the opening. The first car buckled in the middle and the second car partially telescoped it. The motorman, Michael J. Mullin, 36, of New York, was crushed in his motorman's cab, Dubois said. Emergency crews and rescue workers struggled for more than three hours cutting away twisted steel with acetylene torches before finally freeing two men and a woman trapped in the lead car. TURNED DOWN BY UNION AS UNACCEPTABLE

"Company Security" Pact With CIO-UAW Asked By Management

(By Associated Press)

DETROIT, Dec. 18.—A pay increase of 15 cents an hour was offered the CIO's United Auto Workers by the Ford Motor Co. today and the union promptly rejected it. The company combined its wage offer with a demand on the union for a "company security" arrangement, involving fines up to $5,000 for "illegitimate strikes." Richard T. Leonard, director for the UAW-CIO, announced after a reading of the company proposals that Ford's offer was "completely unacceptable to the union." Ford said its offer would represent a 12.4 per cent increase and a total of approximately $33,000,000 a year. In its last employment figures the company said it had 109,000 employees. The Ford offer compared with a 10 per cent increase offered the UAW-CIO by General Motors Corp. This has been estimated at 13 1/2 cents an hour. Resume Talks Thursday Union negotiators said discussions would be resumed Thursday. The Ford company amplified its original company security proposal to the UAW-CIO, among the chief proposed points was this one: That the union would be "liable to the company" for the sum of $5,000 for each person found guilty of "instigating an illegitimate strike" when such person has an "official representative position in the union" but is not an employee. In labor-management disputes in the auto industry this has been put by management under the heading of "outside interference." In the Ford proposal an umpire mutually agreed upon by the parties to the contract would determine guilt or innocence. Ford proposed to the UAW-CIO that any employee who is found guilty of "instigating, fomenting, actively supporting or giving leadership" to an "illegitimate strike" should be subject to discharge. Any other employee who takes part in such a strike would be liable to "liquidated damages" to the company. For his first offense the damages would be $150 a day, for the second $250 a day.

FACES CHARGES OF MURDER, ABDUCTION

SAN JOSE, Calif., Dec. 18.—Santa Clara county district attorney Leonard S. Avilla said today Thomas Henry McMonigle, accused by the FBI of abducting and slaying Thora Chamberlain, 15-year-old San Jose high school girl, probably would face charges of kidnapping and murder. Avilla reported the murder charge would be filed against the 35-year-old former convict in Santa Cruz county today. He will ask a Santa Clara county grand jury to return a kidnapping indictment against McMonigle. Justice department agents reported McMonigle confessed to luring the girl into his car Nov. 2 at San Jose, Santa Clara county, and slaying her in Santa Cruz county.

Thousands Cheer Return Of Kai-Shek to Nanking

CHUNGKING, Dec. 18.—Generalissimo and Madame Chiang Kai-Shek returned triumphantly today to Nanking, from which they were forced by the Japanese to flee in 1937. A semi-official dispatch reported. They traveled to the former Chinese capital in Chiang's special plane. Thousands crowded the old Ming airfield to greet the couple, who afterwards motored through the ancient city to the acclaim of the cheering inhabitants, the dispatch said. Company Security Is Old

The proposal of the United Automobile Workers to grant the Ford Motor Co. security against "wildcat" strikes is not so revolutionary as appeared at first reading. John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers have had exactly the same provision in their contracts with the mine operators for several years.

The fines in the case of the miners are not as high as those proposed for Ford, running around $1 or $2 for each day of unauthorized strike as compared with $5 in the case of Ford.

The plan hasn't prevented strikes but authorities agree it has reduced the number and shortened the period of work stoppage. Total collections have been about $500,000 which was given to some worthy cause agreed upon by the parties. Apparently it works for neither side has made any effort to rescind this provision which has gone far beyond the trial period.

They Belong In School

Ohio's laws regulating the working hours and conditions of women and children are back in effect after some of their provisions were suspended during the war. Emergency legislation setting aside parts of the regulations temporarily went out of existence Sunday. May it never be necessary to invoke them again.

The wartime measures made it easier for women to leave their homes and for children to leave the schools and made it possible for them to work in occupations which they are not permitted to follow under normal conditions.

School records show that the number of pupils who left their classes to engage in war work was considerably less than had been feared. Hundreds of pupils who worked at big wages during the summer vacation gave up their jobs and returned to classes when the school bell rang. The new order will make it easier for some of the others to go to school and harder for them to work.

Whether a woman is to leave her home duties for a factory job is pretty much her own business unless it prejudices the opportunities and care of her children but whether or not a child attends school is the business of the whole nation whose future depends on the way in which its youth prepares to have a part in that future.

The Result Is Nothing

The Pearl Harbor inquiry threatens to end as one of the most ineffectual and disappointing experiences in all the history of Congress. The resignation of Chief Counsel William D. Mitchell and his staff is merely the climax of weeks of ill-directed probing which has gone far afield and has thrown very little light on its original question.

The investigation was launched for the announced purpose of determining how the Japanese were able to make their surprise attack on Pearl Harbor and who, if anyone, was responsible.

It was brought into the record some information which had been secret up to this time, it has wandered off into much extraneous matter and it has indulged occasionally in personalities but it has not shown who was responsible for the laxity which left American planes helpless on the ground and American ships huddled in the harbor until the enemy planes roared in to complete the greatest naval disaster in American history.

The trouble with the inquiry is that it was a judicial investigation without judicial procedure. Counsel Mitchell and his staff prepared to conduct the inquiry along the lines of legal procedure only to have the questioning taken out of their hands by members of the congressional committee. It was as though every member of a trial jury took over the questioning of the witnesses, each with the purpose of establishing his own personal point. Such a procedure can scarcely result in anything but chaos.

The people still want to know the truth about Pearl Harbor, not so much to punish any who may have been derelict but to make sure that such a thing cannot happen again. A reformation of the plan of committee action and resumption of the inquiry on a more effective plan is demanded for this nation's security.

Mr. Reuther's Proposal

In the current issue of Common Sense, Victor G. Reuther proposes that labor form a political party to work for replacement of "private ownership of monopolistic industries" by "forms of social ownership." He doesn't say it that simply. But after building up a fine, pseudo-Marxian bonfire, that proposal, neither new nor startling, is all that remains in the embers.

The writer is a brother of Walter Reuther, vice president of the UAW-CIO, and is himself an officer of that union. We do not know how authoritatively he speaks for his union or labor generally. But, in any case, he may have to arm himself with a dictionary and some reference sources before pursuing his battle with the status quo much farther.

Mr. Reuther begins by saying, in almost so many words, that American labor won the war, militarily as well as industrially. Someone will probably challenge that statement, so we will go on to his reference, in disparaging quotation marks, to "normalcy," "free enterprise" and "the American way" as enemies of the Four Freedoms and his implication that they contain the roots of fascism.

If Mr. Reuther has dipped even superficially into the history of fascism, he must know that it is not a business-controlled state, but a state control of business and everything else. And he must know that free enterprise doesn't thrive any better in fascist soil than free labor.

The author says that "the profit-taking power of monopolistic 'free enterprise' is the bottleneck preventing full production and full employment. His sole proof for that statement is to quote the lump-sum wartime increase in profits of 2,000 industrial corporations—before taxes!

Mr. Reuther should know that even his dullest readers might suspect that argument of being something less than air-tight. During the war, the existence of an excess profits tax became pretty generally known.

The social ownership he proposes must, says Mr. Reuther, "be absolutely democratic in character." We doubt that even the author of that statement knows precisely what it means. The unabridged dictionary definition of democracy has nothing to say about economics. Social (meaning government) ownership is an economic technique, and its "character" is the same under a constitutional monarchy or a "dictatorship of the proletariat."

Mr. Reuther misconceives the intent of the labor-management conference, which had been proposed but apparently had not met when he wrote his piece. He speaks of industry and government "ganging up" on labor, though President Truman made it clear to both parties in his invitation that it was "their" conference, and the government would not be an active participant.

In this connection the author speaks of "the antiquated theory that government can persuade labor and capital to join hands and work like brothers for the common good." That theory may seem treasonable to Mr. Reuther—and to some men in industry. But a lot of us reactionaries think it would be a fine idea if somebody could do that job of persuading Mr. Reuther may even find that this vision of effort for the common good is more popular than what he calls his "program of political dynamite."

Striking Examples

We may have more and bigger strikes than England at present, but there is a certain imaginative dash to some of the English ones that we can't begin to match. For example, there were the 500 dentists over there who struck and refused to make any more false teeth for persons with health insurance until they got $42 instead of their present $25.50 fee.

That's really putting the bite on the public. But it remained for one small group of English laborers to dream up what to us seems the ultimate in unhackneyed strikes.

They were grave-diggers. And they walked off the job because, they claimed, they were being "worked to death."

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, December 19.

THE planetary auspices, affecting the affairs of this day, expand opportunities, purposes and direction to a very active and energetic effort to preserve the status quo of recent productive enterprises. In this, there may be a further drawing on accumulated resources and assets, perhaps with the support of those in place and power. But approach these with acumen rather than emotions.

Those whose birthday it is may be compelled to keep alert and efficient in a determined effort to maintain all ground previously gained by sagacious tactics and sound decisions, both in personal and private associations. New resources may have to be marshalled and aid sought.

Such may be disposed to drive a hard bargain or to make conditions of subterfuge. Be alert to sinister involvements and make decisions on a safe and sane basis.

A child born on this day may possess fair abilities and energy which it will find needful in maintaining security. It may be drawn into suspicious situations by its impulses.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

An Intestinal Disturbance

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IN 1932, it was discovered that a certain disorder affecting the small intestine was not due to tuberculosis, as was formerly thought, but to infection of another type. This condition is known as regional ileitis. The ileum is the last part of the small intestine. Ileitis may be an acute disorder, that is, lasting only a short period of time or it may be chronic and last for many, many months.

The acute condition usually starts gradually. There is pain in the right lower part of the abdomen, with vomiting and diarrhea. There may be fever, an increase in the number of white cells in the blood and some tenderness in the right lower part of the abdomen. These symptoms are frequently so much like those caused by acute appendicitis that in many instances an operation is performed and the ileitis not diagnosed until the abdomen is opened.

Similarly, it is often difficult to diagnose the chronic form of the disease. However, X-ray examination is often helpful. In the chronic condition, the most important symptoms are pain, loss of weight, fever, diarrhea and anemia or a lessening of the coloring in the blood.

Treating Chronic Form In treating the chronic form of ileitis, according to Doctors Everett D. Kiefer and John R. Ross of Boston, operation is required in most instances. In the acute form, medical treatment is more satisfactory.

In other instances, the condition may start suddenly with pain in the right lower part of the abdomen, with vomiting and diarrhea. There may be fever, an increase in the number of white cells in the blood and some tenderness in the right lower part of the abdomen. These symptoms are frequently so much like those caused by acute appendicitis that in many instances an operation is performed and the ileitis not diagnosed until the abdomen is opened.

Similarly, it is often difficult to diagnose the chronic form of the disease. However, X-ray examination is often helpful. In the chronic condition, the most important symptoms are pain, loss of weight, fever, diarrhea and anemia or a lessening of the coloring in the blood.

PATTON SITS UP IN HOSPITAL BED

HEIDELBERG, Germany, Dec. 18

Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., sat up in his hospital bed yesterday for the first time since his accident eight days ago and army authorities said he was "getting well like a house afire."

The U. S. 15th army commander, who had said "this is a hell of a way to die" after an automobile crash rendered him almost totally paralyzed, was throwing off the paralysis suffered by injury to his spinal cord with speed reminiscent of his wartime advances.

One army official said "only Old Blood and Guts could come out of it the way he did."

Yule Meeting Of Book Club Is Delightful Affair

An ornamented Christmas tree featured the decorations at the annual Christmas meeting of the Book Club yesterday afternoon in the library assembly room. Branches of pine and red candles were used effectively throughout the room. Members brought gifts for the Fairmount Children's home.

Mrs. L. P. Koenreich, president, welcomed the guests.

Roll call, "My Fondest Christmas

Memory," resulted in interesting and humorous incidents.

Christmas carols were sung, with Mrs. Raymond Stiver, leader. Mrs. Irving Megall played the accompaniment.

Miss Mary Lou Vincent offered two piano solos, "Malaguena" and "Fantasia in D Minor." Two vocal solos, "O Holy Night" and "Silent Night," were contributed by Mrs. George Talbot and Mrs. Robert Talbot, with Mrs. James Hayden accompanist.

Mrs. Ross Clay reviewed the Christmas story, "The Littlest Orphan," and a Christmas story, "Papa's Merry Merry," was told by Mrs. James Lyle.

The committee in charge included Mrs. Clay, Mrs. A. H. Schropp, Mrs. Louis Bloomberg and Mrs. Wilbur Glass.

The refreshment table was enhanced with Christmas novelties. Tea was served by the hospitality committee composed of Mrs. Ralph Long, Mrs. A. J. McDaniels, Mrs. Clyde Williams, Mrs. H. D. Huttenhower and Mrs. Howard McDonald.

The next session is scheduled Jan. 7.

Christmas Party Held By Garden Study Club

Mrs. Glenn Harding, who attended the Christmas meeting of the Garden Club of Ohio, held in Cleveland last week, gave an interesting report of the meeting to members of the Garden Study Club at its Christmas dinner party last night in the Lape hotel. Mrs. Harding demonstrated how to make Yuletide decorations.

The tables were beautifully appointed. One was centered with an arrangement of white angel candles formed into a choir and placed on a mirror. The other centerpiece was of pine and Christmas novelties.

Mrs. Blair Curry was received as a new member. The guests were Miss Harriet Percival and Mrs. E. M. Stephenson.

Mrs. C. J. Lehwald reviewed the history of "Holly" and Christmas decorations and read a story, "Our First Tree."

The roll call response was "A Christmas Decorative Idea."

Hansell Store Staff Enjoys Holiday Party

Mrs. A. Hansell gave a beautifully appointed dinner party last night at her home on E. State st., at which she entertained the employees of the Hansell store.

The table was centered with an arrangement of fruit and graced by red and green candles in crystal holders. The favors were tiny slippers.

Prizes in the bingo games were claimed by Mrs. George McKee, Miss Jean Smith, Mrs. Hazel Blackstaff and Miss Marjorie Theiss.

A gift exchange contributed pleasure.

Gold Star Auxiliary Enjoys Party

Members of Gold Star auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars, enjoyed a Christmas party last night at the hall, N. Broadway.

Mrs. T. W. Thompson entertained with readings and a song. Five hundred was a favorite diversion. An exchange of gifts added pleasure. Lunch was served.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 14.

Lions Auxiliary Has Dinner Party Monday

A dinner and exchange of gifts featured the evening when members of the Lions auxiliary held a Christmas party last evening at Wee Farm on the Lisbon rd.

The next meeting will be held on Jan. 21, the place to be announced later.

Pageant Is Planned For Harris Class

A pageant entitled, "Madonnas Around the World," by members of the Christian Youth fellowship, will feature the program at a social meeting of the Harris class of the Christian church at 8 p. m. Wednesday in the church.

Junior Music Clubs Hold Dinner Program

The home of Miss Miriam Bauman on N. Union ave. was the scene of an enjoyable social affair last night when members of the Junior Music Study and the Musical Culture club gathered for a coverdish dinner.

The table, set for 40 guests, was enhanced with Christmas novelties.

Mrs. E. E. Dyball was presented a corsage's pin, with Thomas Williams making the presentation.

Carol Kelley and Lucy Huston were awarded pins for certain club work they have done. Miss Mary May Votaw, president of the Junior club, presented them.

Novelty favors were given in the games.

The program was as follows: Saxophone solo, "Deep Purple" (DeRose), Thomas Williams, with Miss Ann Helm, accompanist; trumpet solo, "White Christmas" (Berlin), William Scullion, with Miss Mary Catherine Scullion, accompanist; piano solos, "Polonaise in A Flat" (Chopin) and "Hungary," Miss Helm.

After the meeting the group sang Christmas carols at both hospitals and the Home for Aged Women.

Prizes in the games were won by Mrs. Charles Saftred, Mrs. Robert Gray and Mrs. Bauman. A buffet lunch was served. The table was lighted with candles.

Secret pals were revealed. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Bauman on W. Seventh st.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Tolerton and family have moved from W. Tenth st. to 400 S. Lincoln ave.

LEETONIA SCHOOLS CLOSED 'TILL JAN. 2

LEETONIA, Dec. 18.—Leetonia schools will remain closed until Jan. 2, school officials said today.

The schools were due to reopen Monday but officials said that increased absenteeism in the grade schools prompted decision to keep the schools closed. Illness among high school pupils has been on the decrease, a check shows.

The I. F. Mellinger Bible class of St. Paul's Lutheran church will meet this evening at the church for a coverdish dinner.

The committee in charge is Walter Windram, chairman; Earl E. Halverstadt, Fred Sittler and Ben Weingart.

LISBON BRIEFS

A beautiful wedding took place Saturday afternoon at the United Presbyterian church, uniting in marriage Miss Jean Elizabeth Leonard, daughter of Supt. and Mrs. H. C. Leonard and William Neal Hanahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hanahan.

The impressive single ring ceremony was performed by Rev. C. L. Cope, pastor of the Lisbon Methodist church, before the altar which was banked with palms and ferns and on each side of the altar were large bouquets of giant chrysanthemums and seven branch candelabra. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Inez Marsden.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a white satin gown with tight bodice, full net skirt with sweetheart neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. A three-quarter length veil was held in place with a coronet cap and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Dale C. Schafer of Knoxville, Tenn., sister of the bride was matron of honor and wore a pink lace gown with tight bodice and full skirt and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Following a reception, Mr. and Mrs. Hanahan left on a short honeymoon, and upon their return will reside in Lisbon.

The Sorrels club will hold its Christmas party Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. H. C. Leonard on Morris st., with a coverdish dinner at 6:30. Mrs. Robert H. Huston will give a talk on "Christmas Traditions."

The Mary Margaret class of the Presbyterian Sunday school, taught by Mrs. Frank Todd, will have its Christmas party at the home of Miss Louise Lafferty, E. Lincoln way, this evening. A coverdish dinner will be followed by a gift exchange.

Charles L. Sell, MM 2/c, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Sell of Woodland ave., arrived home last week on a 17-day leave following service on the Destroyer Hughes in the Pacific area.

Sell's ship conveyed all occupation forces to the northern part of Honshu island in the occupation of Japan and he was present in Tokyo bay on Sept. 2 at the time of the signing of the surrender by the Japanese. He will return to Charleston, N. C., where he will be stationed until the Hughes is decommissioned.

A brother, Robert E. Sell, SM 3/c, is stationed at Guantanamo, Cuba.

Klein's Garage Can Help Keep Your Auto Running

All those dreams of a new car this winter have faded in the minds of most everyone.

It comes down to the point of driving the old car and every motorist must realize every attention should be given the old car.

Records of state safety departments show that more and more accidents are piling up due to faulty steering mechanism and bad tires.

Both of these conditions are easily remedied. Much can be accomplished by having an experienced mechanic make a check. The Matt Klein Specialized garage is fully equipped to straighten all steering rods, wheels, axles and frames with special equipment made for this one purpose. There mechanics are factory trained which is insurance the work will be done right.

At Klein's badly dented and bent fenders are repaired as well as similar body damage, the work is done so perfectly it is hard to detect a repaired section from a new replacement part.

Don't Throw That Coal Shovel Away Yet

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Dec. 18.—Don't toss away that coal shovel just yet, but....

Two and two-tenths pounds of radio-tive mass could be converted into as much heat as all the bituminous coal consumed in the nation in a year, Dr. Richard E. Vollrath, head of the physics department at the University of Southern California, told the opening session of the 21st Institute of World Affairs yesterday.

Endres-Gross' Flowers Aid Holiday Festivities

Endres-Gross reminded shoppers today that flowers for the holidays should be ordered early, especially if the are for friends living out of town. Persons who place early orders are certain to have the advantage of selection and the entire matter can be handled by mail which is cheaper than telegraph.

Endres-Gross' store is filled with the hard-to-get items that are so satisfactory as Christmas gifts. Glass and china have in hundreds of designs of vases, lunch trays, flower bowls, candlesticks, etc., would please in many instances.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

MACKENZIE'S Column

DUBLIN, Dec. 18.—Now we come to that vexatious question of why the Eire government maintained neutrality during the war and refused requests of the United States and Britain for badly needed naval bases.

That's a hot potato, but it has to be handled, and the sooner the better. I think perhaps the best way to approach it is to tell you of an extraordinary incident that has happened to me here in the capital of Eire.

I went with my camera to get a picture of the fine old parliament building. Having secured permission of the sentry on duty by the big iron gates to the courtyard, I proceeded to make four shots. I had much difficulty because a huge statue of Queen Victoria stood right in front of the building and there was no way of outflanking it. As I was maneuvering for a fresh position, a minor government employee intervened and said I wouldn't be permitted to publish such a photo.

"We can't have a picture of the parliament building taken with the queen in front of it," he declared with such finality that I promptly removed my film roll and handed it to him.

"Well," I remarked, as I eyed the likeness of the famous queen who has been dead these 45 years. "I knew the feeling here against England was bitter, but I didn't suppose it was this bad."

He half turned away, and ducked his head, by way of humorous acknowledgment that I had got my remark home. But he carried my pictures off, and I went back to my hotel, not at all annoyed but on the contrary much interested. Of course by the time I had arrived at my hotel I received profuse apologies by telephone from the head of one of the government departments, and he himself brought the film back to me. He said the seizure had been absurd.

The people of southern Ireland as a whole are so bitter towards Britain that political circles here will tell you quietly there would have been open revolt in some quarters if the government had

KONOYE

Hull an interim answer and so suggest the neutrality pact.

When Nomura presented the suggested pact to Hull on May 7, Konohe said "Hull did not even consider this."

Matsuoka had sent the chief of the Japanese European and Asiatic diplomatic bureau to inform Germany and Italian ambassadors that "Japan had received a secret proposal for the adjustment of diplomatic relations," Konohe recounted. Matsuoka then went to Emperor Hirohito, Konohe wrote.

"At this time he (Matsuoka) reported 'If the United States would join the war (in Europe) Japan would naturally have to stand on the side of Germany and Italy.'"

Matsuoka, who finally agreed to send an answer without hearing from Germany, received immediately afterward a German note that "since the real will of the United States in seeking a compromise with Japan was to drive ahead toward entering the war against Germany, the Japanese government should make it clear that:

"1. It recognizes American conveying as an action intentionally bringing about war and which therefore will naturally force Japan to enter the war, and, extensive he considered the ship doomed.

"2. If the United States refrains from such action, Japan is prepared to study the American proposal."

McVay said he immediately told the executive officer to pass word to abandon ship.

Swept Off By Wave

The executive officer went below to carry out that order, McVay continued, "and I didn't see him again."

McVay said he ordered the navigator to go to the radio room to make certain a distress message had been transmitted and to send another reporting the ship was sinking rapidly.

"My first concern was to get out the distress messages," McVay testified.

About eight minutes after the explosion, he said he told the officer of the deck he was going to the radio shack himself to make sure a distress message went out. When he reached the signal bridge, he said, the ship took a sudden list and seemed to hold at about 60 degrees. Then within 30 seconds it went over to 90 degrees, he said.

Capt. McVay said he then stood upright on the ship's side and made his way toward midships, having in mind this part of the ship might remain afloat and he could cling on until daylight.

He was swept off by a wave. "I struck out into the darkness," he said. "I heard a swish, looked back and the ship was gone."

Kennel Club To Present Show Proceed Gifts

Leetonia Man To Receive Pathfinder Dog, Memorial Building To Be Given $300

Presentation of a pathfinder dog to Leonard Leone, R. D. 2, Leetonia, and a cash gift of $300 to the Memorial building, from the Columbiana County Kennel club, will be a feature of a public meeting in the Memorial building at 8 p. m. Wednesday, President Arthur Vaughan of the Kennel club, announced today.

Both gifts were derived from proceeds from the club's September All-Breed dog show at Reilly stadium, and are being made in compliance with plans the club formulated before the September show.

The general public is invited to the presentation ceremony.

The pathfinder dog to be given Leone will not be available and the Leetonia man will have to travel to Michigan to receive training with the dog.

Leone's gift includes his costs at the training school as well as the price of the animal. Two noted dog trainers from the Pathfinders institute will be present.

It is expected that Leone's training period will begin shortly after the first of the year and will last 30 days.

Presentation of the cash award to the Memorial building will be made to Joe Kelley, building manager.

Selection of the person to receive the club's pathfinder dog gift was made by a specially chosen committee which included Kelley, Mrs. Arthur Brian, Miss Hazel Linn, Rev. Fr. John R. Lavelle and Capt. Robert Barton.

The committee, Mayor R. R. Johnson and several other city officials have been invited to the meeting.

The club's regular dinner meeting will precede the presentation ceremonies.

Oklahoma A.&M., DePaul Loom Again As Tops Among Nation's College Cagers

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—Oklahoma A. & M. and DePaul, last season's finalists for the National basketball championship, again shape up as the teams to beat for this year's cage crown.

The defending champion Aggies, with only a 46-42 defeat by DePaul to mar their otherwise perfect slate this season, are flying high following three straight triumphs over such formidable foes as Westminster (Pa.), Long Island university and Temple.

DePaul, beaten for the title by the Aggies last year, also is bowling over its opposition. Sparked once again by George Mikan, its six-foot-nine-inch center unbeaten DePaul has chalked up 7 straight triumphs including a 74-56 win over Indiana State Saturday which enabled the Demons to win their invitational tourney.

In that game Mikan established a new Chicago stadium record with 37 points. Last winter Big George set up a new Madison Square standard by sinking 53 points.

The Aggies get a well deserved rest in the opener for the Oklahoma City tourney which gets under way Dec. 26. They had a narrow squeak Saturday, barely nosing out Temple 38-36 for their fourth win.

Close on the heels of the two leaders are unbeaten Cornell, Wyoming, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Purdue, Ohio State, Minnesota, New York U., Notre Dame, Michigan and Rice. Other undefeated outfits include Yale, Syracuse, Tennessee, Indiana, Ohio U., West Virginia, Baylor Texas Christian, Georgia, Holy Cross and Indiana.

Quintets not yet out of contention, although once beaten, include Bowling Green, Arkansas, St. John's, Temple, Colgate, Long Island U., Valparaiso and Oklahoma.

The unbeaten list is bound to shrink after this week's engagements when powerful Purdue meets Notre Dame and Indiana clashes with Michigan in a Western Conference game Saturday. Other perfect records may be sullied as Kentucky engaged strong Arkansas today, Ohio State plays Oregon, Pacific Coast champs, Friday, and New York U., Ohio U., Yale, Minnesota, Iowa and Holy Cross all meet top-notch opposition Saturday.

In contrast to the previous week, few upsets marked last week's games. Cornell gained its fourth triumph Saturday with a convincing 55-42 triumph over Penn's Quakers who defeated the Big Red five for the Eastern Intercollegiate title last year. Kansas solidified its bid for the Big Six crown by routing over Kansas State and Missouri for its fourth and fifth straight victories. Ohio State shaded Illinois 50-46 in a Big Ten clash. Purdue beat a surprisingly strong Washington of St. Louis 52-28. Michigan routed Great Lakes 58-45. Minnesota whipped Iowa State 63-33. Indiana edged Louisville 62-59 and Notre Dame walloped Wisconsin 65-51.

In Madison Square Garden, New York U. maintained its perfect record with a last second 63-62 win over Arkansas while St. John's triumphed over Rhode Island 45-37. Kentucky beat Cincinnati 67-31. Yale trounced Villanova 46-33. Columbia whipped Union 51-34 and West Virginia defeated Ashford Army hospital 67-43.

Joe Kelley, manager of the Memorial building, announced today that tonight's city league contest will be played at the Memorial building instead of at the High school gym.

HOLLINGER PACES COLUMBIANA FIVE WITH 17 MARKERS

McGaffick, Nedelka Star For Locals In 38-32 Whipping

A definite all-around rustiness and inability to stop Big Bill Hollinger, ex-Columbiana High court ace, brought the Salem Sinclairs a 38-32 loss at the hands of the Columbiana dairy in the Class A city league inaugural last night at the Salem High school gymnasium.

The locals jumped off to a 7-2 lead in the opening frame but soon found that they could not control the backboards nor hit a fair percentage of their shots.

Ray McGaffick and "Torch" Nedelka kept the Salemites in the game until one minute of the half remained when the Dairymen took the lead 15-13, after Hollinger and Dickens had scored from underneath the hoop.

With Hollinger and Dickens beginning to click, the Columbiana attack hit its peak in the third period and the visitors outscored the Sinclairs, 16-9, to take a 31-22 advantage as the fourth period opened.

The Salem five managed to cut the lead slightly when McGaffick, Nedelka and Bob Roberts found their respective shooting eyes temporarily but the nine point margin was too much to overcome.

Neither team displayed much in the way of a coordinated floor game as passes flew wildly and inaccurately and plays refused to function. Members of both clubs were far from their best playing condition.

Hollinger was definitely the big gun in the Columbiana drive as he rimmed seven two-pointers and three foul throws for a 17 point total while the Salem scoring was well-divided. McGaffick and Nedelka set the pace with 10 and nine points respectively. The ex-Salem High star hit the hoop four times with one-hand push shots from the four circle while Nedelka, playing with a taped left leg, showed an amazing versatility on his shots.

Tonight's Class A fray will pit Wayne Siding's Goodrich club against Greenford. Starting time is 8:30 p. m.

Washingtonville

The Elizabeth class of Trinity Lutheran Sunday school taught by Mrs. Joseph Candler, held its Christmas party in the church parlors Wednesday evening. At the covered dinner the table was decorated with Christmas novelties.

Following the dinner, a grab bag was enjoyed, secret pals were revealed and gifts were exchanged. The teacher was presented a gift.

The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Ivan Davis; vice president, Mrs. Homer Heintzelman; secretary, Mrs. Vera Hepler; treasurer, Mrs. Rose Woods.

Mrs. Leslie Tingle entertained the South Side "500" club members Wednesday evening at a Christmas party at her home. Card prizes were awarded to Mrs. Norman Kornbau and Mrs. Frank Stouffer.

Christmas decorations adorned the table where a chicken dinner was served. Gifts were exchanged. Mrs. Howard Stouffer will be the next hostess in January.

Mrs. Harvey Baker met with an accident in her home on Friday morning when she fell down the cellar steps, receiving a large cut in her head and body bruises. She was rendered unconscious for some time.

The Busy Bee society held its Christmas party in the Methodist church parlors Friday evening. A chicken dinner was served and an exchange of gifts was enjoyed. The teacher, Mrs. C. R. Taylor, was presented a gift. The social hour was enjoyed with games.

Members of Nation's Oldest Camera Club Are Real Gadgeteers

BY FRANKLIN J. FOX

CINCINNATI, Dec. 18.—Shutterbugs can't resist buying the latest gadgets to hit the market and for that reason the nation's oldest camera club conducts an auction among its members four times yearly in which everything invented for them passes from hand to hand. Behind a table piled high with cameras, films, developing trays and tanks, timers, projectors, filters, sun shades, spot lights, diffusers, etc., Dr. Glenn Adams, Cincinnati surgeon and a leading light in the Cincinnati Camera club, presides with the hammer on auction night.

Progressive Gadgeteers

"Everytime a new gadget hits the market," said Dr. Adams, "at least one of our members falls for it. We're progressive gadgeteers at heart, you know. When he tires of it, and they always do, he brings it down here and someone else gets a crack at it."

The auctions are held every time a month comes up that has a fifth Thursday in it.

The Cincinnati club has been in action since 1884 and now has 82 active members. Dr. Adams said the reason there are not more members is the $25 yearly dues. "The highest in the country," he added proudly.

In their basement clubrooms, formerly a nightclub within focusing range of the Ohio river in downtown Cincinnati, the members held their most recent auction on Nov. 29.

Nearly 75 members attended—all bearing something to sell, and after about two hours of competitive bidding in the haze of a smoke-filled room, all went home bearing something they had purchased. One fellow got so excited about picking up an enlarger lens for $8 that he continued to bid on the next item offered. After winning, he discovered it was a developing tank he had brought to the auction himself. The night's business grossed a little over $150 with a bottle of print toner selling for three cents and an enlarger going for $38.50 to set the extremes in prices.

Dear Sir:

We think Keystone Bread is very delicious and a real treat. We use it a lot and thank you for making such good bread. Our children like it toasted and for sandwiches, and it's good for them too. It stays fresh for a long time and that means we don't have to waste any as it's good until we eat the last slice.

Sincerely yours,

Mrs. Joe DeMatteo
